DEATH IN THE FLAMES.

Terribly Fatal Explosion in a New York Candy Factory.

NEARLY 200 EMPLOYEES IN THE BUILDING.

Of Which Three-Fourths are Thought to Have Perished.

DESCRIPTION OF LOSSES, ETC.

New York, Dec. 20 .- An explosion, immediately followed by a fire, occurred at five minutes past 5 o'clock this afternoon in the immense candy manufactory of Greenfield & Sons, No. 63 Barclay street, which extends in the shape of an "L" to College Place. The boiler, which was under the sidewalk on Barclay street side, burst, tearing away the entire front and scattering the wreck in all directions. A large number of girls of all ages were employed at the time in the building The walls fell within a few minutes after the explosion. The policeman who was on duty near the building, says he saw the front of the building, five stories high fall into the street.

Fifty-six wounded and one dead were reported at Chambers Street Hospital at 5:45 o'clock. A number were sent to Bellevue and other hospitals. The esti-mated wounded will reach 125. But few escaped uninjured.

Mr. Greenfield, the owner of the factocould give no idea of how many were in the building at the time of the explosion but thought abot 110. Of these about fifty escaped by the College Place Entrance and a small number got out through the skylights, walked over the roofs and got down the skylights of other buildings. The book-keeper, who was on the Barclay street side of the building, was blown out through the window to the street and badly cut on the head. Several jumped from the second story and escaped with slight injuries their fall being broken by policemen and citizens on the sidewalk below. No fair estimate of the loss of life can be given to-night, but it must be large. The parties employed in the factory were principally young girls and boys from eight to twenty years of age. Owing to the approach of the holidays, a double force was employed, one working during the day and the other night. The force is changed at five o'clock, and the fact of the explosion occurred at five minutes past that hour renders it still more difficult to know how many or who are the victims. The number in the buiding at the time of the disaster is variously estimated at from 100

The flames spread so rapidly that it is feared many not injured by the explosion were burned to death. The Barclay street angle of the building has fallen to the ground, as has also Nos. 65 and 67 Baron the upper side. Owing to the heat no the ruins until tomorrow.

The factory building was in the form of the letter L, having entrances No. 63 Barclay street and No. 3 College Place. In the angle were situated the Grocers' bank building and D. D. Franklin's brown paper warehouse, both five stories. The atter was also burned to the ground, leaving the bank building on the corner loomup alone over the ruins. The bank building was only injured on the fourth and fifth floors used only as a dwelling by the janitor and several families, who lost all their furniture and affects. The third floor, occupied as law and other offices was slightly injured by water, but the officers on of the bank on the ground floor suffered no injury. Mr. Tompkins' loss has not yet been ascertained. The loss of Greenfield & Sons is estimated at $100,-000, insurance about $70 000. No. 65 Barclay street was a frame building with a cigar store on the first floor, the upper floors being occupied by Colonel Freuch for the last thirty years.

Mr. French and family escaped, but the former left $10,000 in United States bonds in a book case on the second floor. Foreman Joe McGill, of Engine No 32, and Roundsman Coffee, of the Twenty-first precinct police, volunteered to go in for the bonds. The flames and smoke were bursting out of the building. They climb ed up on the awning and entered a window secured a package of papers and came out. The package was found not to be the bonds. A second time they entered through the flames and smoke, and brought out the bonds in safety. A number of persons who escaped from the factory with slight injuries had their wounds dressed in a drug store, and went home. Some of the girls had their hair burned totally off their heads. First re-ports were exaggerated in regard to the number of wounded. Only thirteen were brought to Chambers Street Hospital, and none to any other hospital.

The greatest sacrifice of life was among young girls many of whom from eight to fifteen years were employed selling and assorting and packing candies on the first floor over the boiler, which was situated in the basement of the rear end of the Barclay street wing of the building, and not under the side walk as at first reported. None of these were known to have

News of the explosion spread over the city very rapidly, and the wildest rumors and the greatest excitement prevailed. Large crowds hurried from all quarters to the scene. The police kept the crowd blocks away from the place. Many persons having chi.dren or relatives work-ing in the factory, as the evening wore on and they did not return home, sought the scene of the disaster, and hospitals and police stations in search of missing ones. At the lowest calculation there must be forty or fifty bodies in the ruins. The firemen will keep streams of water on the ruins all night, and have the way cleared and be ready to commence digging for bodies to-morrow. It is feared the wall of the bank building is damaged, and this will be examined before work on the ruins is begun. Mr. R. Klein of 53 Leonard street says he was in the building about ten minutes before the explosion, and there were a great many persons there at the time. He passed in front of the building two minutes after the explosion, and saw on most of the floors, as the front wall had fallen, a great many boys and girls rushing about in an excited and confused manner, but they became obscured to view by the smoke and flames in a very few seconds. There seems to have been no possibility of their getting out alive. The fire was one of the thickest ever seen. In less than three minutes the flames had ascended to the roof.

Peter Studymiller gives a vivid description of the affair. He is employed with Rodgers & Co., and was within forty feet of the doorway when the explosion occurred. It seemed to throw up the entire sidewalk, and the front of the build ing fell into the street. There was a two- $6,000,000 invested in the business.

horse truck of the Delaware & Lackawanna Express Co., passing, and the wall fell on horses and driver. Stadtmiller said he believed there were nearly 200 persons employed in the building at the time. There is not more than a dozen girls employed on the ground floor, most of the boys and girls being engaged in the second and third stories. Stadtmiller says he is positive not more than six girls and a dozen men came out alive through the Barelay street entrance.

The elder Mr. Greenfield was about the first who rushed out, and he was much scalded. He saw about a dozen making their escape by the roof to the adjoining roofs. As near as could be as-certained there must have been about 120 persons employed at the time of the

Among those inquired for by their rel-atives, and known to have been working in the candy factory, are Peter, William and Anderson Starr, brothers, all young; Lizzie O'Brien, William Bennett, Ernest Greenfield, Peter Yeman, Albert and George Krummy, August Droxler, Robert Hanna, Charles Lininger and Frank Waldt, All those mentioned worked in the factory, and have not been heard of since the fire.

D. B. Hasbruck, Chief of the Bureau of Elections, was passing the building at the time of the explosion, and was badly hurt by some of the walls falling on him. He was carried to a storehouse.

Fifty Italians have been put to work on the ruins in the streets, which are cool enough to handle, but no dead bodles have yet been discovered. It is supposed some must be buried beneath, as the street was filled with passengers when the explosion occurred.

The wounded at the New York Hospital are Peter Stark, aged 32; Edward Collins, aged 18; Otto and George Meib, aged 17 and 18; Frank Schatztain, aged 17; George Hauser, aged 17; Joseph Scheunewald, aged 43; George Schneider, aged

The injured at Bellevue Hospital are Harry Schenday, Barry Linden, Tony Stalk, Philip Ridel and George F. Ad-The firemen worked bravely and fought the flames, and the police arrangements were excellent. If the ruins are cool enough to-morrow a large force will be set to work digging for bodies. Great numbers of persons who had friends or relatives in the building say they are

A later estimate places the number of persons in the building at the time the explosion occurred at 170, including 20 visitors and customers. The boiler had been in use five years, and it is said Greenfield had been warned several times that it was unsafe. The loss is now estimated at $500.000.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

An Illinoit Adventurer Flays a Matrimonial Game in Newark, Ohio, and Loses -A Young Man with $20,000 Cash in His Clothes.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 18 .- Quite a ensation was caused in the neighboring town of Newark, a few days ago, the particulars of which have been kept from the public by the newspapers and authorities of that place. It is stated, however, that a brief paragraph did get over the telegraph wires in regard to it but it was so dressed up that nobody would recognize it as describing the event referred to. It appears that the daughter of one of Newark's most prominent citizens was clay street on the lower side and No. 61 for months in correspondence with a young man named Faulkner, residing in search can be made for those buried in Lincoln, Illinois, which resulted in an engagement of marriage. About ten days ago Faulkner appeared in Newark and sported about for several days, telling the family of his inamorata that he had just come into possession of a large bequest, amounting upwards of $40,000, He was quite lavish in his expenditures. and took no pains to conceal the fact from his immediate friends that he had cash in his possession to nearly the amount above stated. In fact, he several times placed $15,000 to $20,000 in the hands of his prospective father-inlaw, for safe keeping, while he made short trips to neighboring towns, Upon his arrival in Newark, Faulkner sought the lady and urged an immediate consummation of the marriage, but she declined, saying it was impossible, as she was not ready and could not make arrangements for the wedding at once, Faulkner was importunate in urging an immediate marriage, and finally told her he was going East, and he would give her just eight days to make up her mind on the Subject, and if she was not ready when he returned, the engagement was to be declared off. Faulkner accordingly left Newark, but only went east a short distance, when he took another train and went up to Chicago Junction; but while in that place he was pounced upon by a couple of detectives from Illinois, and arrested on a charge of forging checks upon four banks in Lincoln, Illinois, to the amount of $40,-000. Faulkner was taken back to Newark, it is understood, and thence to Illinois. It appears that the officers were on his track while he was in Newark, and got wind of his stopping at Chicago Junction by intercepting a letter which he wrote to the lady from that point. The most vigorous pumping failed to elicit the name of the lady, who was almost wild with joy at her narrow escape. as she was more than once upon the point of consenting to an immediate marriage.

When arrested Faulkner had upward of $20,000 upon his person.

ANOTHER LICKING COUNTY MUR-DER.

Another Licking county murder is that of a farmer named C. D. Evans by his tenant Ewing Coulter, living near Kirk-They have had a long standing difficulty about some hay belonging to Coulter, which was in Evans' barn. On Friday Coulter called at Evans' house to buy some corn, when the old trouble was brought up-Evans accusing Couls ter of stealing from him. From words the parties came to blows, when Coulter picked up a piece of wood, and with it struck Evans a powerful blow on the head, fracturing his skull and killing him almost instantly. Coulter, when taken before a Justice at Alexandria, claimed that he was acting in self-defense, when he was set at liberty. The coroner's jury reported that C. D. Evans came to his death by a blow or blows, with a heavy club; in the hands of Ewing Coul-Coulter was then taken to Newark ter. and lodged in jail. He appears not to be troubled in the least about the case, and still claims that the killing was done
